

DON MCMAHILL TO EDIT THE GATEWAY; MABEL SHIVELY EDITOR OF OMAHAN

Carleton Williams To Be Business Manager

ALL FROM NORTH HIGH

At an election held Friday, May 15, Don McMahon was elected editor of the Gateway and Mabel Shively editor of the Omanan. Carleton Williams will be business manager of the Gateway, while as yet no business manager for the annual has been chosen.

"A school that does not have an annual for several years appears to be closed and then when another annual does come out, it seems to have come back to life," stated Mabel Shively. "Next year I hope Omaha Municipal University will put out its first annual successfully."

Mabel is very active in school life, being the present editor of the Gateway, a member of the Sigma Tau Delta, honorary literary fraternity; assistant in the library; member of the Barb Council for next year; member of the Y. W. Cabinet for next year as social chairman, having served as publicity chairman last year; interested in music, having played in the University Band for three years; and a former member of the Student Council.

"I consider it the highest of honors to be chosen editor for the first year of the Omaha Municipal University," said Don McMahon. "I hope for the highest co-operation from the staff of the present year as well as those of the previous two years with which I have had experience. We intend to show no partiality to any organization."

Don has also been very active on the campus. He is a member of the Theta Phi Delta fraternity; very active in both the band and orchestra; is editor of the Gateway for 1929-30, having been a reporter on the staff of the previous year; past member of the Student Council; editor-elect for the 1930-31 annual, which failed to materialize; and president of the first literary organization on the campus, the Alpha Gammas.

Carleton Williams, as a freshman, has not been on the campus long enough to identify himself with any organization other than the Alpha Sigma Lambda fraternity. However, as Business Manager of the North High school paper, he was very successful.

All three of these students were graduated from North High School, Mabel and Don in 1928, and Carleton in 1930, where they studied and gained previous knowledge in journalism.

Dr. Sealock Makes Another Trip East

Dr. William E. Sealock recently made another trip east in regard to selecting additional professors for Omaha Municipal University. He interviewed Dr. Keppel, president of Carnegie Foundation and Dr. Susale of Columbia university, relative to a survey of the local situation. Likewise he interviewed candidates at Harvard College, Princeton, Pennsylvania, and Iowa universities. An investigation in reference to the library is being made.

Since Dr. Sealock's return, the regents have not met. However, according to Mr. Paul L. Martin, vice-chairman of the regents, they intend to meet in the very near future and present tentative plans for tuition, the selection of teachers, and the library situation.

ENTERTAINS AT THEATRE

Miss Inez Chasak, librarian, entertained the library staff at a theatre party, May 8, at the Danmore presentation of What Pussycat. Her guests were her mother, Mrs. Chasak, Rose Anderson, Miss Gove White, Jeannette Winters, and Mabel Shively.

May Day Coronation To Be Held at Kountze Park Tomorrow Night

The eighteenth May Queen will be crowned at Kountze Park, tomorrow at 8:30. The identity of the queen and her senior attendant is a secret. The junior attendant is Marjorie Darling; sophomore attendant, Hope Welburn; and freshman attendant, Maxine Munt.

The Gala Day Fete, which is under the direction of Mrs. Fritz Baumeister, comprised, in addition to the coronation of the May Queen, a number of solo and group dances and music.

Little Harold Olsen will be crown bearer while Helen Gearhart and Marjorie Hammer will be flower girls. The pages include Donald Irwin Hammer, Dixie Johnson, Jerry Helmstadter, and Jerry Barrett.

Solo dancers will be Jane Olechnowicz, in a Russian dance; Mary Jane Davies, presenting a gypsy number; Genevieve Welch, offering an oriental number; and a solo dance by Edyth Grobmann. A vocal solo will be sung by Adelyn Specht.

Dr. James requests that all the organizations and the entire student body bend its efforts to make this Gala Day a successful annual event.

A string ensemble under the direction of Henry Cox will present several musical numbers. A band concert will also be offered by the Technical High school band under the direction of Evelyn McDonald.

Dr. Vartanian's Classes Hold Picnic Sneak Day

Sneak Day! Dr. V. H. Vartanian's classes seized this opportunity for holding their annual picnic at Hummel Park. Twenty-one were present. Mrs. Vartanian, Cleo McQuire, Linda Bradley, and Bernice Allen were honored guests.

The favorite pastime of the day for Leora Washburn and Burd Argenbright was putting dry ice in milk bottles to watch them foam, while Bruce Olsson endeavored to teach Mary Clark and Leora Washburn how to throw a ball straight. Wilma Fillers and Elizabeth Wendland are still arguing who made the most home runs during the baseball game.

In order that he might long remember the day, Derrian Christy crept about taking motion pictures. In fact, Bert enjoyed the day so much that he expressed the idea that he intends to major in picnics—whatever that is.

On the refreshment committee were Clark Wohlers, Walter Grogan, and Ann Mucken. Ice cream was furnished free of charge by the Harding Ice Cream Company.

SOON TO BE PRINTED

The new catalog for Omaha Municipal University will soon be ready for the press, according to Prof. H. H. Orr, chairman of the committee catalog. However, it is necessary to wait until the regents decide on the tuition rate as well as on several other features.

CHILDREN'S THEATER TO PRESENT SECOND PLAY, FRIDAY, JUNE 5

The "Children's Playhouse", a branch of the dramatic department of the university, under the direction of Mrs. Jean Jarmin, are rehearsing the play, "Racketty-Packetty House", by Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett. This drama will be produced Friday evening, June 5, at the Florence Community Hall. The selection of the cast, which is not quite completed, is to be announced at a latter date.

E. Wendland Elected President of Y. W. C. A.

Elizabeth Wendland was elected president of the campus organization of the Y. M. C. A. at a meeting held last Wednesday. Other officers elected were Elmer Pease, vice-president; Angeline White, secretary; and Mildred Hoskey, treasurer.

The nominating committee was composed of Jeannette Winters, Cleo Butler, and Evelyn Plouzek, the retiring president.

As soon as the new president has appointed the various chairmen, a cabinet meeting will be held and plans for next year discussed. According to the president, one of the foremost problems will be the maintenance of the Y room with comfortable facilities.

Credits Offered for Playground Work

Arrangements have been made with the City whereby all students who enroll in the Child Welfare class being offered by the Sociology department during the coming summer school and who are interested in playground work may secure additional credit for two hours' work on the model playgrounds.

All the directors on these playgrounds will be college trained recreation workers. Many are expected to take advantage of the opportunity to get practical training as well as the University credit.

DEAN DUNLAP MAKES COMMENCEMENT TOUR IN DECORATED PLANE

Dean A. J. Dunlap is making preparations for his commencement tour, which starts today. The airplane in which Dean Dunlap will make his journeys is to be painted blue and white with the monogram of the Municipal university put on in water colors under the wings.

Mr. Knapp, his lecture manager, has charge of scheduling his engagements. To date, the schedule is as follows: Thursday, May 21, Scottsbluff; Friday, May 22, Gering; Saturday May 23, Morrill; and Wednesday, May 27, Neligh.

Contest Offered by "The Campus Muse"

Feeling that the college poets of today, who may be future leaders in this field as has been proven by such contemporary poets as Robinson, Millay, or Frost, are not receiving the proper encouragement or attention, "The Campus Muse," of Muhlenberg College, is offering $100 in prizes for the most outstanding works of college poets in the United States in 1930-31. Furthermore, arrangements have been made with a prominent publisher to have the prize-winning poems, as well as the outstanding remaining works, printed in book form this summer.

Copies of this will be sent to representative college libraries and metropolitan newspapers for review just to show the literary world what the "college muses" can accomplish.

Poems for this contest have been divided into ten groups; a prize of ten dollars in gold is offered for the best work in each of the ten classes. These groups are as follows: life and living; loyalty; to country or Alma Mater; love; religion; nature; personality; children; pets and hobbies; campus life; humor or parodies; general theme.

The Gateway editor should be consulted as to further information.

TWELVE ACTS COMPRISE PROGRAM FOR GALA NIGHT SHOW, TOMORROW

GRADUATES NOTICE!

All seniors who have not yet applied for their diplomas, even if they intend to graduate from the summer session, as well as those teachers who have not applied for certificates, should see Mr. Helmstadter at once.

Prof. Taylor's Classes Send Questionnaires To Prominent Persons

Wishing to peep into the future, the adult group of professor L. O. Taylor's history of education classes, asked approximately 100 civic leaders of the city, and a few outsiders, in order to get some revelation as to what education will be 20 years hence. The question asked was "What do you consider to be the most significant educational problem, need, or change in Nebraska today?"

Around 40 replies have been received from Superintendent J. H. Beveridge, Belle Ryan, Edith Tobitt, librarian, R. M. Marrs, principal of South High, J. G. Masters of Central High, E. E. McMillan, principal of North High, a number of Creighton instructors, ministers, high school teachers, grade school principals, and teachers.

The replies vary as to the needs in education, but the majority center around one of four themes. First, the equalization of the budget—expressing the idea of collecting taxes from wealthy districts to educate the children of the whole state. Second, the training of the children to be more moral. Third, the training of the students to think for themselves. And fourth, this group is professional in character giving proposed changes by illuminating problem of overcrowding, better trained teachers, better library facilities, and the adjustment of courses to the needs of the students. So far only one person thinks things are all right.

Prize Offered To Organization Selling Most Tickets AT JACOBS HALL

Twelve acts comprise the program for the Gala Night Show to be presented in Jacobs Hall at eight o'clock tomorrow night, May 22. Seven hundred tickets are on sale through the different organizations. A prize of seven dollars and fifty cents is offered to the organization selling the greatest number of tickets above sixty.

Each sorority, fraternity, the Barbs, play production class, and other organizations are sponsoring an act. The alumni division is also staging a skit.

The play production act deals with a story of disappointed love in the Paris underworld; it is to be given entirely in pantomime. It is devised and staged by Rose Weber.

"Sorority Solree," staged by Gamma Sigma Omicron, will portray a late evening scene in a sorority house. Music, as the main feature, will be presented in a collegiate atmosphere of pajamas and pillows.

The Sigma Chi Omicron act is entitled "Hick's Court," a farce which satirizes the actions of an ordinary court scene. The plot centers around a mistaken identity and final discovery of inter-relationships.

"Fortunes of War" is the skit to be put on by the Phi Omega Pi. This is a typical fight between a sorority and a fraternity.

An act, "The Toy Shop," by the Phi Delta Psi is a peek into a toy shop at the stroke of 12.

"Courtship under difficulties" is the title of the Kappa Delta act. This, a dance act, is supplemented by a chorus.

The Theta Psi Delta fraternity will feature a clever act of music and drama, which will be given in the form of a radio program.

Starring the "big four," Fred Widoe, Delmar Hills, Clark Wohlers, Claude Jelen, Alpha Sigma Lambda will furnish a rip roaring comedy, dealing with three colored gentlemen and a Swede.

The Phi Sigma Phi skit is entitled "Plant Life At the Equator." This scene gives a peep into the home life of the vegetative nuts, who meet in the lobby of the hotel. This act was written by Paul Haynie and Russell Baker.

The English fraternity, Sigma Tau Delta, are to put on "Cleopatra," the Gold-digger of Broadway, or There's Nothing New Under the Sun by Shakespeare.

The Barbs are featuring the boys' quartet composed of Bruce Gideon, Clark Wohlers, Kenneth Hubler, and Hoyt Griffin in a classical and popular program.

Herbert Fischer as the small, mysterious magician, will represent the Alumni Association in a sleight-of-hand performance.

Widoe Senior Class President for 1932

Fred Widoe was elected president of the 1932 senior class at the class meeting, which was held last Friday. Kenneth Huff was elected vice-president; Marjorie Roberts, secretary; and Edwin James, treasurer. Student Council members are Claude Jelen, Claude Jelen, and Edwin James.

Marjorie Roberts, retiring president of the junior class, was elected chair until the next president is elected. At that time, it is expected that Fred Widoe will succeed her.

Rescue Hall and Dunlap are expected to follow.

GALA DAY

"For I'm to be Queen O' the May, Mother, I'm to be Queen O' the May,"

says a young maiden (or should we say "matron?") as she laboriously twined some unruly bridalwreath into a floral crown. This act probably began the celebration of the heroine of Gala Day, but for our athletes showing their superiority in all manners of manly feats of strength.

Later we will picnic, play or "snooze," as the spirit moves us. Pie on you, humble Freshie or grave (?) Senior, if you toil over that past due report or approaching exam! Have you no school spirit at all? Eat, drink (milk or lemonade, take your choice) and be merry, for Gala Day comes but once a year.

And in the evening—that's when the real fun begins. The revelation of the deep dark secret of the May Queen's identity, the graceful dances which have caused so many sore muscles, and the small attendants, who are among the reasons our faculty members work so diligently, all are attractions that none of us can afford to miss.

Finally, comes the night show, about which we dare not say much lest we permit at least a dozen cats to jump out of the bag. There will be two hours and more of vaudeville entertainment, put on by your classmates, whose talents have so frequently been demonstrated in the schoolrooms!

Yes, Gala Day is a great time all right!

To widen your life without deepening it is only to weaken it.

AS SENIORS SEE IT!

Four happy years have elapsed since most of us entered the University of Omaha—four happy, busy years, crowded with development within the students and almost equally rapid progress for the school. To dwell at length upon own improvement would be neither modest nor fair. Today our views are short-sighted at the best; only in future years, if, indeed, at all, will we be capable of evaluating our experience in the University.

We have been singularly fortunate in attending the college during the period of its transition. Fortunate, we say, because the school's struggles have been our struggles, and only by the effort comes growth. We entered as the founder of our University, was forced, by ill health, to surrender his leadership—forever. We leave as a new administration, with the financial support of the entire city, takes the helm. Three presidents have guided us through our student days. The school has spread physically from two buildings to four, with the prospects of a fifth before autumn.

Many of the faculty members who strove as hard with us as still here. Others have scattered. Through small classes and personal contacts we have had the advantage of learning, not only literature and science, education and art, but a philosophy of life from our teachers. Only an earnest and sincere group of professors would have remained through difficulties as ours has done. To all who have led our classes we owe a debt which we can only be applying and passing on the lessons they have taught us.

Opportunities for student leadership have been offered us times innumerable. Members of our class have served in important offices in sororities, fraternities, the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., the Omahans, the Gateway, art, language, musical, and educational clubs, honor societies, the Student Council, and organizations, athletics and other activities. In a larger school, these positions would have been held by an outstanding few, whereas here each of us has had his part.

Next week we leave the University, to come back as visitors, as alumni, perhaps as candidates for Masters' and Doctors' degrees, but never again as the enthusiastic, over-hurried, young undergraduates who make up the body, yes, and the heart, too, of our campus. The classes, the activities, the jobs, which have been our chief interest for the last four years, and which we hardly realize will go on without us, must be left for the larger education of the professions, of business, and of the home.

To you, Juniors, soon to be Seniors, and to you, under-classes, we would leave this full word. You face a year, some of you several years, when possibilities at the Municipal University of Omaha will be larger and more numerous than ever before offered. Make the most of them, more, perhaps than some of us have made of ours, for today we realize, as never before, that the value of a college education is exactly proportionate to the interest and effort put into it by each student.

WHO'S WHO AT THE U. OF O.

Onward through mud, sleet, snow, and nine frozen opponents played the school here. "Bunny"—as toward the goal for a touchdown. Onward through his classes to a degree and onward through the labyrinthine windings of the path of school favor into the very heart of the student body. Benjamin Gerald Huff, captain, first arrived at the University from Logan, Iowa, in 1928. His activities in athletics in the home town won him four letters in football and basketball and three letters in basketball. Adding to this collection year by year at the U. of O. he has earned three more letters in football and basketball in short. Mr. Huff is what might be called a "man of letters"—which is the proper title for a future athletic coach.

The office of president of the Phi Sigma Phi fraternity and acting chairman of the "C" Club have little time for many other activities.

"But I have to be tactician," declared Bunny. "Tacticianing is my very favorite sport, as was being president of the Sophomore class of 1930."

Just one more question before you leave, Bunny. At the Junior-Senior banquet, why was it so urgent for all the tacticianing to be finished by nine o'clock?

"(To be answered in the Gateway of this hour. If not, never, he Bunny, to person.)

Please Tell Me!

Dear Cynthia:

On Saturday, May 9, I was attracted by a crowd in front of Brodegaard's jewelry store. To my surprise Bennie Huff was standing in front of the window filled with wedding rings by themselves; then he looked at the engagement rings very pensively. Finally he stood in front of the ensemble display of wedding bands and engagement rings.

Could you find out if Bennie has a girl at home? I've heard it said that he continually tries to sing and whistle "The Girl I Left Behind Me."

If I knew that Bennie really had a girl, I could never be my own joyful self again. I've tried all year to show him how interested I am, but he hardly looks at me.

Lonesome Co-ed.

Dear Lonesome Co-ed:

Upon asking Bennie's roommate about this, he only said: "Look in Bennie's bill fold and see the pretty picture enclosed." I'm afraid, Lonesome Co-ed, that you are out of luck. Cynthia.

Dear Cynthia:

Somebody says that the average American takes 18,908 steps a day. That's the bunk. It isn't that far to the garage.

Don Marshall.

Dear Don:

It may not be that far to the garage but it's that far and farther to the parking place.

Cynthia.

Darling Cynthia:

We are just two little girls trying to get along as best we can, and we need advice, Cynthia, badly. Could you tell us what makes us giggle so constantly and why we like to sit on the arms of chairs while eating mashed potatoes and gravy? These questions have been put to us so often that we simply must find some answers. Won't you hear our plea and send your solution of these problems to Ardith and Evelyn.

My Dear Children:

Giggling is ever indication of free consciences and well-done deeds. Go ahead and giggle, remembering that saying, "Laugh and the world laughs with you, or at least at you." As for sitting on the arms of chairs while eating potatoes and gravy—that is a conditioned response. Having sat in high-chairs while wee mites, it is much more natural for you now to take lofty positions while eating. And take care to express this desire to sit on chair arms, lest you develop these dreaded suppressed desires. Ain't I a help?

Cynthia, the Moon Maiden.

In French class, Thomas inquires, "Won't it be difficult, since so many dialects are spoken in France, to make yourself understood, if you should travel in that country?"

Miss Kincaide: "You'll find that very few people in France will understand French as you speak it."

In English class, Mrs. Gearhart informs Baker, "Really, Mr. Baker, I think you are going to be a second Will Rogers."

Baker: "Thank you, Mrs. Gearhart, but I must decline the nomination, but there's no chance for advancement."

Jiggs decided to become up-to-date has purchased a suit of pajamas, and timidly asks the lady behind the counter: "Pardon me, lady, do you wear these over or under the night-shirt?"

CUBS CORNER

A POET'S WISH

Oh, if words could only capture
 The lark's song at the dawn:
 Or hold the thrilling magic of a
 May night in a poem.

Oh, if one could hold a summer's day
 Within a simple rhyme:
 Or put the cadence of a brook
 In notes not lost to time.

Oh, if words could only cherish
 Youth's first rapturous kiss:
 I'd never ask the world for ought
 Besides the joy of this.

When Dandelions Last in Our Schoolyard Bloom
(In the Fashion of Walt Whitman)

When dandelions last in our schoolyard bloom,
 And the evil sun gleams upon the misery below,
 I'll mourn a cruel fortune.
 O, heartless Dame, a sealed doom sure to me you bring,
 And to my friends and foes, as well, in these woe-destined halls.
 O, pitiless, shameless, remorseless, sure-acting time,
 How steadily, relentlessly, you involve the wheel to its full cycle!
 How soon you bring about our fated destinies!
 Oh, woe, woe; you, woe, are the real reality.
 Oh, fellow students, the dreaded day approaches—
 The awful, mournful "jour malheureux."
 When we must face the horrid monster Cross Examen.
 Yet while we speak, the day is come, the fated day.
 And after all is finished, I with dragging steps approach my domicile.
 Is that a tumult that I hear?
 It is a tumult—a storm of voices,
 And as I near, I find Able, Ikey, Izzy, and Moses, gathered in the doorway, calling,
 "Come up from the fields, father, here's a flunk notice for our son Jackie,
 And come to the front door, mother, here's a notice for the dear son."
 But as they approach, with angry tread,
 There on the ground poor Jackie lies,
 Fallen cold and dead.

Book Review

"The Haunted Bookshop," by Christopher Morley.

Every reader who made the acquaintance of Roger Mifflin in "Parnassus on Wheels" will rejoice at finding him again, this time as the proprietor of a bookshop in Brooklyn. So realistically does the story begin that one is almost impelled to get down the telephone book in order to get the address of the enticing haunted bookshop. Never does one's interest lessen, as the story moves chattily on through amusing conversations, a mild, pretty love story, and an exciting bomb plot. Although much of the charm of the book lies in the character of the whimsical, bookloving Roger Mifflin ("spelled with two f's") and his charming comments on all manners of things, the story itself is not negligible.

The gathering of booksellers is one of the high spots of the book. These men, representing various commercial and literary interests, have a great time, some of them being skeptical about the public's appreciation of the really good books, and others feeling that, after all, the public does the choosing of the best-sellers and that perhaps the public's taste is more infallible than that of a man who spends his days in a dusty bookshop.

The modern advertising methods of Aubrey Gilbert are also familiar and amusing, and Miss Titania, the book-selling debutante, is a very charming romantic element.

The informal, conversational style of the book is decidedly refreshing and if you have not yet had the pleasure of reading this delightful tale, prepare now to partake of a rare mental feast—from the cocktail of mystery, through the meat of philosophy and conversation, tasty salad of humor, to a dessert of romance.

Jones (buying a new overcoat): "I can't wear this, dear, its three sizes too big."

Wife: "Yes, you can! Remember, it's not to go over the radiator of the car in cold weather. That's what we have to consider first."

And what does it show about our school when an honor student is beaten in a popularity contest by a back house queen?

"The prices for your antique are outrageous."

"But madam, think of the present high cost of materials and wages."

REPORTER'S LINES

In the quiet of the office sits the weary, worn reporter
 Full of vague, undefined longings,
 Longings over felt in springtime.
 From across yon well known campus,
 Blow the winds, from out the southlands,
 Bearing warmth and scent of lilacs,
 —bringing sounds of the great city.
 Idle thoughts go wandering ever through the mind of the reporter,
 Thoughts of schooldays well-nigh over, thoughts of worries, joys and sorrows
 So soon now to be ended, 'til autumn shall once more greet us.
 With the jolly old semester drawing
 thusly to its finish,
 "What a shame," cries the reporter,
 to so misdirect our talent,
 Writing columns for a public underserving and unkindly.
 Better far to seek some hillside, far away from all that's human
 Only sky and earth and water, trees and flowers and trilling bird call call
 As a setting for the meditation of the young reporter.
 Never golf, nor even tennis, Gala
 Day, examinations,
 Should disturb the peace and quiet.
 Nevermore would such a column
 Child of weary brain, and written on a limping old typewriter
 Mar the columns of the "Gateway," nay, nor any other paper.
 And thus the weary mortal, unbe-
 wailed and ever unused
 Servant of the blasé public, makes a final bow and offers
 For your unkind disapproval, a last effort, and a swan-song.

"Your son seems to be on the road to success."
 "There's no doubt of it; only a few years ago he was wearing my cast-off clothing—now I'm wearing his."

"The bathing suit that you saved to wear again this year will make a fine cloth to wipe the dust off of your fingers."

"John, the papers say that the Jenkinses are back from their vacation in Yellowstone Park."

Miner: "I am sorry you are leaving me, Ann. But of course, if you are going to better yourself..."

PHI SIGMA PHI WINS FRESHMAN EVENTS

All Four Men's Organizations Fought for Athletic Supremacy BARBS GET FIVE FIRSTS

The Phi Sigma Phi fraternity copped the championship for all athletic events on Freshman Day. Throughout the day, the four men's organizations on the campus fought it out for athletic supremacy. The Barbs were strong in track and field events, getting five firsts.

E. Armentrout, Barb, won first in the 100-yard dash and the broad jump; Sales, another Barb, won first in the shot and discus; and T. Dixon won first for the Barbs in the 220-yard dash.

Krutchon, Phi Sig, won the high jump, was second in the broad jump third in the 220-yard dash, and was the chief point-getter for the Phi Sigs in the track and field events; though Benny Huff won second in the 220-yard dash and Wallace a third in the 100.

Hollister and Arthur finished one two in the tennis singles and won the doubles also. The golfing honors went to Bob Hegarty, who had the low score.

The Phi Sigs won the elimination Kitten Ball tournament.

CARTON OF CIGARETTES GIVEN WITH TICKET

Bargain day in dance tickets is already stimulating the sale of ducats for the final Student Council Dance, at Missouri University. This dance will feature Bernie Cummins and his New Yorkers.

With a carton of cigarettes being given with each ticket, students consider that the dance admission amounts only to twenty-five cents, and the response is very hearty. Cummins, one of the leading orchestras of the country, is being brought to Missouri University through the efforts of the Student Council and of C. T. Kraft, representative of the Liggett-Myers Tobacco Company.

Les Gage Names 1931 All-American Teams

The 1931 All-American basketball teams, named by Les Gage, Sports Editor, appear in the May issue of College Humor Magazine.

FIRST TEAM

THIRD TEAM

Forward—Romney (Brigham Young)
Forward—Hayman (Syracuse)
Center—McClay (Nebraska)
Guard—Ario (Montana State)
Guard—Sexton (Arkansas)

"Basketball coaching has become so highly specialized," writes Les Gage in the May issue of College Humor, "that there are increasingly large numbers of fine players developed in the smaller schools each year. College Humor's All-American basketball selections are presented after a comprehensive examination of every athletic conference and all universities and colleges. Recommendations have been received and studied with care and precision. Advice has been tendered by a group of the country's most eminent teachers of the game."

Astronomy Classes Take Annual Trip

Students of the astronomy classes of Pasadena Junior College made their annual ascent of Mt. Wilson, last Friday, to study at first hand the world's largest astronomical observatory and its equipment.

Leaving Friday afternoon, the excursionists arrived at the summit in time to attend the lecture and view the heavens through the 60 inch reflector. A trip through the museum and an inspection tour of the 100 inch telescope were planned for Saturday morning. Everyone who was interested in this tour was permitted to go whether he took astronomy or not.

MAY SECURE SURVEYS

The following publications may be secured through the Sociology department: "Social Determinants in Juvenile Delinquency," a study of 1145 cases of delinquency in Omaha; and "A Study of Divorce and its Causation," a survey of 1415 cases of divorce in Douglas County. Several additional studies are ready for publication.

Poems by Dean Dunlap are read nearly every morning over the Beatrice radio station at 7 a. m. during the breakfast hour.

"Hockey, by the very nature of the game, is localized in a strip of Northern border states and in the Northeastern section of the United States," says Gage in the All-American hockey story appearing in the May College Humor. "The stronghold of intercollegiate hockey is concentrated in New England, New York, New Jersey, Minnesota, Wisconsin, and Michigan, for the sport, in its amateur form, has not become sufficiently popular to encourage the erection of indoor rinks. The majority of schools still depend upon natural ice for their playing arenas. And so the task of naming an All-American hockey team is much less futile than the selection of mythical teams in the other college sports for there is a scant handful of sextets to consider as compared to the hundreds of football eleven and basketball squads. The 1931 season offered nothing to relieve the monotony of the customary Harvard-Yale supremacy."

Rumors Unfounded in Recent Investigation

According to a recent investigation made at the University of Missouri, there is no foundation to the rumors that examination questions are often in the hands of students before the quiz. A university official has recently made a thorough investigation of the perennial rumors and has found no leaks in the stenographic office where some of the questions are prepared.

Several instances were investigated in which the questions had not been written by the professor until a few minutes before class time, although it was reported that the students had their bluebooks with the correct answers written out and taken to class.

Usually the professor sends a representative from his department or goes himself to the University Stenographic Bureau, where he watches the mimeograph and takes all stencils, proofs, and finished copy of all the questions when he leaves. At other times, the stencils are cut by a trusted employee, and the questions are delivered to the professor together with the proofs, original and stencil, immediately after they are run. No questions are ever left in the office over night.

New Council Members Elected Last Week

The results of the various class elections for Student Council representatives for the next year were announced last Friday. The Barb Council representatives to the Council were elected May 8.

The senior representatives are Claude Jelen, for the year, and Gladys Reynolds, for the semester; Junior representatives, Bernice Corbaley, for the year, and Russell Baker, for a semester term; and sophomore representatives, Donald Norquist, for the year, Mary Jane

Gold Cup Outboard Races Memorial Day By College Humor

Three sectional divisions of the colleges of the country will compete in the second annual running of the College Humor Gold Cup races for outboards of all classes, according to Les Gage, sports editor of the publication, who, today, announced that the Pacific coast division will hold their regatta Decoration day at Cabrillo Beach, Los Angeles Harbor, California.

The Eastern divisions of the colleges hold their regatta on Skaneateles Lake, near Syracuse, New York, June 19-20. Forty drivers have signified their intention to enter. Among them are teams or representatives from Yale, Brown, Cornell, New York University, Dartmouth, Fordham, Toledo, Hamilton, St. Lawrence, and Rutgers. The entry list for the Eastern division closes June 15.

The team from Colgate, which won the team prize last year, again has been entered intact with the exception of William T. Crawford, Jr., who will race this year under the colors of Miami. Stewart Numley, of Detroit, who set two records last year, again will compete with the Syracuse University team.

The date for the Midwest division's regatta has not been set. It is expected that this event will be held under the supervision of either Northwestern University or Wisconsin University. Last year, under the supervision of the latter university it was held at Madison, Wisconsin.

Among the colleges on the Pacific coast who have entered drivers are Occidental, University of Southern California, U. C. L. A., Los Angeles, Ventura, California Tech, San Diego State Teachers, Whittier College, Pomona, Redwoods, and Pasadena Jr. College. According to Wayne Hackett of Occidental, manager of the regatta, it is anticipated that the entry list will exceed that of the Eastern division. The Southern California Outboard Association, an official sanctioning body, is cooperating as to course, timing and officials.

Trophies valued at $3,000 will be awarded in the various events in each of the divisional regattas.

Stringer, for the semester. The freshman class representatives will be elected next fall, probably during the second week of school.

The Barb Council representatives to the Council are Kenneth Hubler and Elizabeth Wendland.

The present Student Council members of each class were present at and took charge of all elections.

Dean Dunlap was on the program of the Trinity M. E. church in Council Bluffs, Thursday night, April 9.

CARDINALS LOSE TO AGGIES; 13-5 SCORE

Hofius Unable To Get Warmed Up—Relieved By E. Hargrove

PLAY GALA DAY

The Cardinal baseball aggregation engaged the Nebraska Aggies in a baseball game, Friday, May 8, and came out with the short end of a 13 to 5 score.

The weather was altogether disagreeable for baseball. Bill Hofius, Card starting pitcher, wasn't able to get warmed up in the cold going and in the third inning the Aggies got to his delivery for four runs. This erased a four run lead given to him by his mates in the first two cantos.

Earl Hargrove relieved Hofius in the fifth and fared little better, although he had better control. The Cards did little scoring after the first two innings with the exception of Everett Armentrout's terrific home run drive into center in the fifth. Several Card errors also contributed to the score piled up by the Aggies.

The Cards will be out for revenge when they meet the Aggies in a return contest on Gala Day. The team urges everyone to be out and boosting for the Cards.

"O" Club Adopts New Constitution

The "O" Club adopted the constitution presented by John Roberts, at a meeting at Joslyn Hall, May 6. Roberts was chairman of the constitutional committee with Benjie Huff and DeLoess Thompson as the other members.

On the motion of Dean A. J. Dunlap, the committee was given a note of thanks for the commendable way in which they handled the formulating of the constitution.

Ernie Adams, Cliff Hansen, and Charles Matthews, old "O" men were present. Officers for the next year were elected at the meeting held last night.
